2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Companies consider all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less to be cash and cash equivalents.

Revenue Recognition

Revenue is recognized when our performance obligation is satisfied. Our primary performance obligation is satisfied upon the shipment or delivery of products to our customers. Revenue is measured as the amount of consideration the Company expects to receive in exchange for transferring goods or providing services. Sales incentives, costs of certain promotional items, such as slotting fees, trade promotion expenses and discounts are primarily accounted for as a reduction of revenue. The Company estimates and records provisions for returns and other allowances in the period the sale is recorded based upon its past experience

Accounts Receivable and Allowance for Doubtful Accounts

Trade accounts receivable are recorded at the invoiced amounts and do not bear interest. The allowance for doubtful accounts is management's best estimate of the amount of probable credit losses in existing accounts receivable. Management reviews its allowance for doubtful accounts periodically and determines the allowance based on the historical write-off experience. Past due balances over 90 days and over a specified amount are reviewed individually for collectability. All other balances are reviewed on a pooled basis by type of receivable. Account balances are charged against the allowance when management determines it is probable the receivable will not be recovered. There are no off-balance-sheet credit exposures related to customers.

Inventories, net

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost, as determined by using the first-in, first-out method, or market.

Property Plant and Equipment, net

Property plant and equipment are recorded at cost. Depreciation is computed utilizing the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Amortization of leasehold improvements is computed utilizing the straight-line method over the shorter of the remaining lease term or estimated useful life. The cost and accumulated depreciation and amortization applicable to assets retired or otherwise disposed of are removed from the asset accounts and any gain or loss is included in the consolidated statement of income and comprehensive income. Repairs and maintenance costs are expensed as incurred. The construction costs of new or refurbished equipment are capitalized and included in construction in progress until completed.

Sales Incentives and Trade Promotional Allowances

The Companies record the costs of certain promotional items, such as slotting fees and trade promotion expenses, as a reduction of sales.

Shipping and Handling Costs

Shipping and handling costs are included in cost of goods sold. For Empirical, shipping and handling charges billed to customers are included in net sales. Shipping and handling costs are primarily comprised of freight and warehouse expenses.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of consolidated financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported. The more significant estimates include valuation of allowances for obsolete inventories, reserves for sales returns and sales incentives and trade promotional allowances. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments

The Companies material financial instruments consist primarily of cash, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued expenses, and a revolver loan for Empirical. The fair values of cash, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued expenses approximate their carrying values based on their liquidity.

Concentration of Credit Risks

Financial instruments that potentially subject the Companies to concentrations of credit risk consist principally of cash and accounts receivable. The Companies sell primarily to large companies and extends reasonably short collection terms and performs credit evaluations. The Companies maintain reserves for potential credit losses. Such losses, in the aggregate, have not exceeded management's estimates.
